In Memoriam

Death is always tragic, but it seems even more so when you are in your youth.

Kansas High School feels a great loss with the death of Myra Barker. Even greater than the loss by the school is the loss by her family.

Myra was well liked, personable and made many friends among students and teachers alike. While here at KHS, she made contributions to the school's welfare and the well-being of the student body. Certainly Myra will be missed by the students at Kansas High. She gave herself to study, activities, and friends while at Kansas High School. No one could ask for any more.

By this time our supply of roots having been reduced to damp powder, the canvas bag was filled with it, and tying it tightly up. I attempted to squeeze it, but soon found that mechanical aid was necessary in order to extract the moisture. My arrangements for this purpose were as follows: A strong, straight beam was made flat on one side. Smooth planks were laid across two of the lower roots of our tree On these we placed the sack, above the sack another plank and over that the long beam. One end was passed under root near the sack, the other projected far forward. And that we attached all the heaviest weights we could think such as an anvil, iron bars, and masses of lead. The cons quent pressure on the bag was enormous, and the s flowed from it to the ground.
"Will this stuff keep any time?" inquired my wife, wh came to see how we were getting on. "Or must all this gre bagful be used at once? In that case we shall have to spe the whole of tomorrow in baking cakes."
"Not at all," I replied. "Once dry, the flour in barrels w keep fresh a long time. We shall use a great deal of thi however, as you shall see."
"Do you think we might begin now, father?" said Frit
"There does not seem the least moisture remaining."
"Certainly," said I. "But I shall make only one cake toda
